

General Information about our firm and Fenlex Group

Our law firm, Fenech & Fenech Advocates, has been established for over 100 years. It is one of the largest law firms in Malta with a large international practice covering a very wide range of fields of practice, ranging from civil and commercial law, mergers & acquisitions, international tax law, company and trust law, intellectual property law, contract and business law, marine law, aviation law, ship registration and ship finance, project finance, gaming law, I.T. and telecommunications law, amongst others. There are presently some 21 lawyers (6 of whom are partners) and 3 legal procurators within the firm.

In addition, our firm, drawing on its corporate services group, may provide the full range of services that clients may require in relation to the incorporation and maintenance of Maltese companies. Services provided include: registered address, fiduciary shareholder, directorship services, company secretarial services, corporate maintenance and administration services, accountancy services, banking support, income tax and VAT compliance, amongst others. Three teams of professionals, organised into the Corporate Services Department, the Accounts Department and the Operations Department, have been servicing international business clients for 20 years plus and accordingly our organisation has the necessary experience and expertise required to provide clients with a 'one-stop shop' service, together with any legal advice and assistance that clients may require in relation to Malta operations.

Our law firm is a full service firm that is wholly departmentalised. Amongst the areas of practice covered by the various Departments is the Trusts & Foundations Group within our Banking & Financial Services Department that works closely with the Fenlex Group, including our licensed trust company, to provide a complete service in this regard. The Tax Department - one of the oldest established ones as far as law firms are concerned and which I set up and currently head - provides tax advice and assistance with the structuring side of a client project at all levels.
